

International Feature Film Competition

Rules of Eligibility

1

The Internationales Frauenfilmfestival Dortmund | Köln e. V. is the organizer of the events.

2

The selection of the films entered for competition will be conducted by a selection committee chosen by the festival director.

3

The prize is endowed with EUR 15,000. The prize money will be divided as follows. A sum of EUR 5,000 goes to the winning director while the company responsible for the distribution of the film in Germany receives the sum of EUR 10,000. The prize money cheques will be presented to the prize-winners by the donor.

4

To be considered for entry in the competition, a film has to meet the following conditions:

- It must be a fictional feature film made by a women director intended for showing on the cinema circuit.
- It must be a film produced for the film market – i.e. not a college film or graduation piece, no debuts – and it must be at least 65 minutes in length.
- The film is to be submitted as a DCP.
- Production of the film must have been completed after 1st March 2021.
- The film may not have taken part at any competition or national festival in Germany. Exceptions may be made with participation at an A-festival.
- The film may not have yet opened on the cinema circuit in Germany or shown on German television.

5

Producers, distributors and other persons who submit a film are required to obtain permission from any third parties involved on the production of the film that they, the third parties, agree to the film being screened at the festival.

6

All the films selected will be shown in the original language. The original version is deemed to be that in which the film was screened at the cinema in the country of origin. The copy should be subtitled in German or, failing that, in English.

7

The transport costs to and from the festival will be charged to the sender. No screening fees will be paid.

8

If accepted, the actual screening copy of the film must arrive at the office of the IFFF Dortmund+Köln no later than 6th March 2023.

9

All DCPs/film copies coming from outside the EU must be clearly marked with a customs declaration stating the following: "Temporary import! – for cultural purpose only – no commercial value". DCPs/film prints from non EU-countries also need to be accompanied by an invoice stating: "Pro forma invoice: Value 10 USD". The Dortmund | Cologne International Women's Film Festival will not be responsible for costs arise as for costs arise as the result of incorrect declarations. These costs will be charged to the account of the sender.

10

For the duration of the festival, the films will be insured at copy value. Insurance protection commences with the arrival of the copy in the festival office and expires on its leaving the festival office after the festival is over.

If a copy should be damaged, then the sender must register that damage within one month of end of festival at the latest. The festival will assume the cost of repair to a maximum amount equivalent to manufacturing costs for a standard copy.

11

An online screener will be sent to the festival for pre-selection.

12

The festival is permitted to use clips (max. 3 min) and photos of accepted films for publicity purposes.

13

If possible, preview copies are archived for later curatorial activities and academic work.

14

An international jury consisting of at least three persons will decide on the awarding of the prize. The jury members and their President will be appointed by the Festival Director. Persons involved in the production or commercial exploitation of any of the competition films may not sit on the jury.

15

The jury's verdict will be taken by simple majority. The members of the jury are obliged to observe strict confidentiality. The discussions and the votes will proceed in all confidentially and must remain confidential after the festival.

16

The prize may not be awarded "ex aequo" (may not be shared). The jury may "give a special mention" (single out for special praise).

17

The prize-winner is expected to take part at the prize ceremony in person.

18

The producer of the film awarded the prize is obliged to name the prize in full, and with reference to the name of the festival, in all of his or her publicity and advertising materials. The Internationales Frauen Film Fest Dortmund+Köln will be pleased to make the festival logo available.

19

Registration for participation at the Internationales Frauen Film Fest Dortmund+Köln will be deemed to entail acceptance of these rules of entry. The Festival Director is entitled to decide on any cases not covered by the guidelines and, also, to permit exceptions in special and well-founded cases.
